Has anyone had any dealings with this place? http://www.cashonlyauto.com They are located in Pompano Beach, FL. Some of their vehicles seem a little too good to be true, but I'm trying to verify if they are legit or not.

Any input would be greatly appreciated.

I can vouch for them. We have purchased 2 vehicles from them over the last 4 years and received warranties with both. First we bought a 1998 Toyota 4Runner, which has given us no problems, what so ever…(although, that probably has more to do with the fact that it is a Toyota). Then a little more than a year ago we purchased a 1999 Range Rover HSE for $8,900 that we are also quite thrilled with. We could not find anyone else that would give a warranty on a Range Rover. The things that make that place so great are the lack of “sales people”. You get treated, (like it or not), like a dealer. You gotta have an appointment to get in and the owner is a trip to work with. We have had a lot of fun at the public showings that we attended. Only problem I can warn you about is that they do not finance. We got financed through our credit union. But the prices are worth getting your own money together. I hope this helps, Good luck!

Thanks for the reply. I kind of got the idea that they aren't going to be following you around while you are checking out the vehicles, which is fine by me. When I shop car dealerships, I usually go after hours to avoid the sales people until I'm sure that I'm interested in a particular vehicle. I was kind of drawn to them because they seem to have pretty good vehicles at good prices and I'm looking for something that I can buy outright to knock around town in that hopefully isn't going to give me a lot of trouble.

When we did have an issue with the alternator, about 2 months after we bought the 4Runner, we took it to our mechanic and the warranty that came with the car covered it...no problem. That is one of the main reasons we bought from ultimatecardeal.com.... we could not afford to pay for unforseen issues that might arise on a used car. this was the answer and best option for us. very happy with the whole experience.
